

ETON WALL GAME - Once more Collegers
meet Oppidans in annual match at The Wall.

Picture: - Once again Etonians "go to the wall". XXXX It is the day of their annual "Wall Game" with the Collegers--

--determined to give the Oppidans a "drubbing" this year! XXXX
It is a strange sort of game,--

--with rules as puzzling as if they were written in Esperanto!
XXXX Sometimes they score a goal!

XXXX The last one scored was in 1909, and another twenty-four years before that! XXXX

I should hate to think of any of the players settling private quarrels in the course of the game, - - but what an opportunity !!

Looking down on them from the top of the wall, they appear to be just a struggling mass of humanity - - intent
upon manslaughter! XXXX

They carry on like this for half-an-hour each way - - and then comes the end, with many a direct hit scored - - but no sign of a Goal!
