

HARD LUCK, WALES ! Springboks defeat
Wales in strenuous struggle in the mud. -Swansea-

Picture:- What a day for it ! Rain falling in torrents as the teams take the field. Welsh supporters have great hopes of a win for the home side, but with the state of the ground, anything may happen. The Springboks have never played on soggy ground before, so it will be a new experience for them.

Powell kicks off for Wales. The Springboks' Forwards are in great form, and press towards the Welsh line, making an early but unsuccessful attack. Bassett puts the ball out of play.

(CROWD EFFECT ONLY OVER NEXT 2 SHOTS).

The mud makes it difficult for players to keep their feet.

From scrum the South Africans heel out the ball.
Craven--

--takes it and gets away. The Welshmen tackle strongly and the visitors gain little ground. The African captain gives his orders--

--in Dutch and hides his tactics. The home team replies in Welsh. Hello ! Bassett sends the ball into touch and immediately skids. It ends--

--in a victory for the Springboks ! Hard luck, Wales !
What about a bath ?
