

COAL CARRIER'S CONTEST - The champion retains his title, in race from Wood Green to Hoxton.

-London-

Picture:- I don't know whether the Householders Coal Delivery Union have heard about it, but these men are just going to find--

--the shortest time in which a hundred weight of coals can be carried 4 miles. Don't ask me--

--why ! The only reason I can think of is honour and glory --

--and a quart tanquard of foaming ale at the finish of the race.

Ah ! He's beginning to sag at the knees. His jockey's too heavy.

These must be picked men. They are so clean.
Anyway somebody is bound to be humbled in the coal dust later. After a tussle with S. Newton, George Couldrige of Hoxton wins, and thus retains his title of Champion Coal Carrier. Dusty work, George ! what'll you have?
