

1384821

-c-

STAGE BALL FOR CHARITY → Tiredless stage folk attend midnight Masquerade Ball at the Theatre.

-Birmingham-

Picture.:- After dancing nearly all night for their pay envelopes, these stage folk are going to dance nearly all the morning for charity's sake. Birmingham's Lord Mayor greets costumed arrivals from pantomime, light opera--

--comedy, and drama. This is the first masquerade ball held on a stage, and as with many other novel ideas,--

--Sir Barry Jackson's Repertory Theatre blazes the new trail. Some fine costumes here ! Here's a graceful modern figure ! Svelte and slim !

And oh ! Look ! All hurry and bustle !

It's difficult to know who's who ! Why a man might make love to his own wife ! Dreadful !

Leap Year ! This fellow took a risk ! Perhaps she'll let him off for charity's sake !