

THE SITUATION IN MANCHURIA- Actual scenes of conflict between Chinese and Japanese Troops. Chanochiatun.

Picture.:- War on the Eastern front ! The Chinese advance guard meets the enemy. Stubbornly,--

--they charge, but the Japanese counter-charge ! A real battle in a real war ! Tiring work storming up that--

--sandy hill, but the Chinese are outclassed by superior fighting forces.

Only one of many serious defeats along the line. A retreat is --

--ordered so that the main body can have a chance--

--to withdraw and reorganize their shattered forces.

It's a bitter blow to the army--

--of Marshal Chang. Apart from a few minor skirmishes,--

--the Chinese troops have been out-generalled in--

--every engagement. The retreat is--

--managed in good order. Men and equipment are retiring--

--to a point--

--beyond the battle zone, while the victorious--

--Japs get closer to their--

--objective. Bringing back Chinese prisoners captured in the--

--flight, they take possession--

--of the city, an important--

--centre on the Manchurian railway. They still insist it's not war, but a campaign --

--against bandits and gorillas who are threatening Japanese interests. Well that may be so, but whatever --

--it is they are certainly winning it.

AND SO, FOR THE PRESENT, I LEAVE YOU !