WONDERS OF THE WEST - Cameraman secures remarkable pictures of the underground fairyland of the Caves of Cheddar.

-Somerset-

Picture. :- Come with me into a magic cave, where, no matter if the weather outside freezes, or fries, the temperature within is-- --always moderate and comfortable. Cox's Cave in the Cheddar Gorge is one of the-- --world's wonders. Nature has been untold centuries making its decorations, and has not finished yet. These stalactites (growing-- --downwards), and stalagmites (growing upwards) are built not faster than one inch every thousand years. Subterranean streams which never see daylight--

--and yet are pure as crystal; transparent like formations which throw back--

--the prismatic colours of the rainbow. Nature's fairyland, buried deep in the heart of the hills.

JOHN PERL OVER NEXT SHOT.

Natural mirrors whose surface is never broken by wind or storm, but which for ever reflect the-- --mystery of their origins. Only a hundred years ago the Cave was undiscovered. Then a-- --farmer found it by accident, or perhaps he believed in fairies.
