"ALL-IN" FOOTBALL - Whole town turns out to take part in annual "match" at Ashbourne.
-Derbyshire-

Picture:- The First League Footer matches are tame compared with this. The teams consist of a few-- --hundred energetic young fellows, and the rules are "Do what you like, and how you like, but do it!" It's North against South, and the field of play is anywhere--

--within a three miles radius. Land or river, it's all one to-- --these enthusiasts. This is where a referee should blow his whistle, and save the player's life, but there is no ref.

So the player saves his own skin and-- --loses the ball. Now it's in deep water! A short sharp scrap, and it's away again! But why?
