

BUDDING BRADMANS - George Hirst, the famous Yorkshire cricketer, starts coaching young players for coming season.

-Leeds-

Picture:- If mild spring cricketing weather does give us a surprise early call, it will find cricketing youth--

--with George Hirst as trainer ready to bowl difficult lobs--

--and yorkers and hit boundaries as heartily as all good cricketers should.

Mr. Hirst is coaching selected young Yorkshire players,--

--in the nets at Headingley, Leeds--

--with the hope of sufficient promise being shown to give them their chance in the County Eleven.

Buller stops a ball which threatens his wicket.

This training scheme is Yorkshire's contribution to better and brighter cricket. If it's successful, the game itself will seriously challenge the popularity of the tea interval.
