

C-52851

CAMBRIDGE LENT RACES - Seventy-two crews have a "bumping" time in annual rowing contest.

-On the Cam-

Picture:- These Lent races are rather like rowing boat boxing! The object is to bump the other fellow as often as you can. Seventy-two crews take part! 648 men! A tribute to the vigorous interest Cambridge University takes in its rowing. Incidentally the number of crews is the largest ever entered.

This first boat is in danger! Yes, I think so!
They're out of the race!

This near crew has pulled clear, but further down another is in trouble and draws out!

Just got away in time and only just!

Supporters of various colleges follow their fancy and-- --bellow encouragement! Here's a tough struggle! They'll get away! No! Well bumped, sirs! And so it goes on for days!