KATE KENNEDY DAY - Traditional procession in honour of legendary patroness of St. Andrew's University.

-Scotland-

Picture. This is another old Scottish custom. Kate Kennedy was a beautiful young woman, whose father, an Archbishop, fought for--

--Joan of Arc. Kate took an interest in the college-- --and its students, but I suspect that the students took more interest in her. Be that as it may Kate Kennedy, dead these 500 years, gets a pageant and procession all to herself. She is represented by a headless student, and many historical celebrities are resurrected--

--to accompany her,--or him,--or whatever it is. She is the Lady Godiva of St. Andrews, but as Scotland was a cold country, she didn't go to such an extreme in the-- --matter of dress, or lack of it. She keeps good company, for St. Andrew, Robert the Bruce, minus spider, Wallace, the Scots Wacha gentleman--

--and others, ride with her, and everybody enjoys it !
