

SCHOOLBOY SOLDIERS -

Eton College O.T.C.

have lessons in the "war game" on Laffans Plain.

-Windsor and Aldershot-

Pictures.:- Eton boys are rather soldier-like today. They're just off for this term's full field day of instruction--

--and practice in the arts of war. Their battle field is Laffan's Plain,--

--Aldershot, and these charabancs are their transport. The peace party remains behind in orthodox college kit, or,-- well, Eton wouldn't be Eton.

The cadets look quite smart in their plum-coloured uniforms, with--

--blue chevrons. Regulars bring up guns by mule teams and give--

--first class instruction on gun handling and firing.

Others indulge in rifle practice by way of a change.

This gun practice with regular soldiers
is very popular.

EFFECTS.

Pretty good smoke screens, that !

Range finding is of course part of the training.

A strenuous day playing the game of war ! A taste of foot slogging, and then home again ! Well, the game is healthy enough, but the reality - rrrh !
