

138234-2

A GREAT STATESMAN - Impressive scenes at final passing of mortal remains of M. Briand
-Paris-

Picture. France and indeed the whole world mourn the passing-- --of a great statesman Aristide Briand. From a pulpit--

--facing the catafalque Monsieur Tardieu delivers the funeral oration--

--in the name of his sorrowing country and its people.

Before the dimmed eyes of a hushed crowd the-- --soldiers of France march past the mortal remains of the--

--politician whose attitude towards security guarantees was uncompromising. "he was the interpreter--

--of one of the most powerful aspirations of an age of suffering. That is why the people--

--mourn him as an apostle," said Monsieur Tardieu.

Preceded by a squadron of the Republican Guard slowly moves towards the place--
the funeral house

--of interment, followed by the immense procession of mourners, representing fifty-seven nations.