

RESTING ! Four-footed pantomime artistes return home to await -- next Christmas.

-Currie, Scotland.

Picture:- In stage circles resting is a polite term for being out of a job. Well, these are stage actors and they-- --are resting. When they are at work Cinderella's glittering chariot is behind this pony, and the footlights are in--

--front, but now they just get lasy and greedy. Wait for it !

Their grandfather, father, and son here.
Three generations with one outsider. -

The dog Midge, their holiday playmate has ambitions as a bare back rider. Grand father dislikes jockeys.

Just forspite, Midge eats their breakfast. They don't mind. They look forward to their next pantomine when the beautiful blond principal girl will feed them--

--with chocolates from admirers in the stalls.
