

13883-C

IDEAL HOME EXHIBITION.

London's Lady Mayoress accompanied by the Lord Mayor receives a bouquet from little Ann Fry when visiting the wonderful exhibition hall at Olympia. The first call-----

---is at the City of Light. The beauties of modern illumination are almost magically--- demonstrated by ingenious devices invented for the purpose ---

---Sir Morris Jenks admires the gardens of romance. Designed by famous ---

---landscape artists, here, bursting from the soft turf are myriads of blooming flowers, sheltered by overhanging trees----

---- Charming Tudor houses with their red roofs tucked under the great glass one of ---- ---this Olympian building. Lattice windows into which one may peep without being thought rude, and----

----village streets down which one may walk with no fear of rain----

-----One of the most popular sights is this tiny cottage. It was nearly destroyed by fire on its way to London but is now restored for the delight of Her Tiniest Royal Highness whose birthday present it was.

-----