

LINER ASHORE -

Gale drives S/S Chepstow

Castle ashore at Toward Point, Firth of Clyde.

-Scotland-

---

Picture. :- The gales which sweep down the Scottish Lochs proved too much for-- --this liner "Chepstow Castle". She was moored in beautiful Rothesay Bay,--

--but during a storm, broke away, and is now ashore at Toward Point. Well, everybody gets on the rocks-- in

--nowadays, so it's not an unusual plight to be, I suppose !
Tugs have done their best to--

--refloat the great ship, but she's stuck fast up to the moment. It is believed that she's-- --badly holed, but even so, the tugs have to keep on tugging !