DUCHESS OF YORK - Opens fine new Central Club established by the Young Women's Christian association.

-London-

Picture.:- What more charming honour could be conferred upon the new Girls'--

--Central Club than that it should be opened by Her Royal-- --Highness the Duchess of York ? What happier augury could it have than--

--that she should bestow her radiant smile and her good wishes upon the project ? Sir Edward Lutyens, who designed the Club, presents the key to the Duchess. This key, and the--

--door it opens will provide a happy solution--

--to many of the problems of lonely London business girls.

Built at a cost of two hundred and fifty thousand pounds, this Club embraces-- --every amenity the average girl can desire. In declaring it open Her Highness remarked-- --that "the sum of twenty thousand pounds had actually been subscribed by-- --business and working girls themselves." The charming ease and friendliness of the Duchess--

--makes many a cheer almost break with emotion as her smile sheds its sunshine over-- --all within her glance. The crowd make it clear that Her Highness--

--is sincerely beloved by the people she serves so gladly.
