MILITARY SUNDAY - Troops of the Northern Command march past their G.O.C. after service in York Minster.

-Yorkshire-

Picture:-.The precincts of beautiful York Minster echo with the measured beat of bands and troops.

On Military Sunday a special service is held annually and attended by soldiers from all round the district.
Fifteen hundred are present--

--this year. 93-years-old Reverend Chancellor Austin of the--

--Minster receives the Military visitors. Lord Deramore and Lieutenant-General Sir Gathorne-Hardy take the-- --salute as the troops march past. The congregation at this service numbered nearly six thousand.

The crowd gather outside to enjoy the pageantry of colour and music. A happier name for the day might be "Soldiers Sunday".
