DUNMOW FLITCH TRIAL - Claimants prove that they are entitled to "bring home the bacon."

-Ilford.Essex-

Picture:- Could you win the Dumow Flitch if you tried ! Proof has to be given that you have lived a year of married life without-- --a quarrel. Could you win ? Well, I've lost anyway ! That's nice jury !

Lord Morris of Newfoundland is judge, while Mr.--

--Grigsby appears for the claimants. Mr. Brown as-- --a claimant replies chiefly that he doesn't know.

A safe--

--answer.

LAUGHING EFFECT.

Council for the Flitch, Mr. Will Hay, asks how many children--

--Mr. Brown has. Mr. Brown doesn't-- --know, but thinks about 10. But --

--he ain't never quarrelled about that, anyhow !

So he wins his case !

BAND UP FOR ABOUT 12 FEET. The Flitch is carried in procession with the untemperamental couple following. The moral is "dpnt' quarrel" you married couples, and you'll always save your bacon. But how dull !
