FLYERS CONVENTION - Heroes of many Atlantic flights meet in Rome to exchange experiences and compare data.

Picture:- Before a gathering of enthusiastic Romans, train-Atlantic fliers of the world meet on the spot where heroes of ancient-- --times met after courageous exploits. General Balbo, the Italian--

--Air Minister has organised this convention. All those brave--

--hearts which beat high over the ocean wastes--

--of the Atlantic will retail their experiences to-- --provide scientific data for future use. A visit to--

--Italy's Unknown Warrior's tomb is made. The air pilots are received by General--

--Balbo. Here the living brave honour those brave-- --ones long dead, by placing a wreath at the foot of the Monument. Britain is represented by Sir Arthur--

--Witten-Brown who made the first Atlantic crossing.
The salute is-- --received with reverent silence. Italy's contribution to the Convention includes the heroic squadron of aviators who accomplished the crossing in squad formation. These are air--

--pioneers who risked their lives in the cause of modern progress.
