TROOPING THE COLOUR -The Army pays its spectacular annual birthday tribute to His Majesty the King ----London

Here is how the Army says "Many Happy returns of the day" to His Majesty....Accompanied by his two eldest sons, the King----

-----arrives on the Horse Guards Parade, followed by the Military Attaches of many nations-----

MUSIC--GOD SAVE THE KING OVER THIS SHOT.

Nearly two thousand officers and men of the Brigade of Guards ---

---are on parade presenting a truly magnificent spectacle ---

---How the crowd thrills at the martial music played as only the Guards can play it

MUSIC (QUICK MARCH) OVER ENTIRE REST OF SHOT.

To-day they are trooping the Colour of the Grenadier Guards. It is handed over-- ---- to the escort and received with the customary salute ---

---His Majesty, looking fit and well, watches with close --- ---attention the actual trooping, which we see here. It consists-- --of slowly parading the Colour down the ranks of the Guards until the end is reached when the escort lines up on the flank and salutes---

---And now, the March Past, first in slow time....It is a military spectacle calculated to inspire pride in the heart of every Briton--

---Even Hollywood couldn't produce anything so fine as this....It's a grand sight; those wonderful fellows marching <sup>3</sup>/<sub>8</sub> past their king in perfect formation--

--- Now, His Majesty joins the troops to ride at their head---

----down the Mall, to Buckingham Palace, for the closing scenes of this great birthday ~~tribute by Army to the King~~--

---- At the Palace gates, His Majesty takes the salute as the whole of the troops march past while the Queen and--- other members of the Royal Family watch from the balcony.---

---A great show --and a wonderful way of wishing--

---our gracious King very "Many Happy returns of the Day".

And so for the present--I leave you.
