FOLLOW THE CHALK LINE - Competitors in novel race find it a little difficult to keep to the rule. -Near Paris-

Picture.:- The casks are all empty, which perhaps is just as well, for--

--the competitors have to roll them to a point about a-- --quarter-of-a-mile from the start - - keeping to the chalk line as they go. .... It doesn't look too easy,--

--nor is it, to judge by the language which they tell me
"gave colour" to--

--the proceedings now and again ! ..... The winner will get a--

--full cask of wine ! .... He'll have earned it - to the last drop ! ... It's a good thing only one way traffic is allowed ! Hey, there ! You're off the line ! ..... They all,--

--play fair - - while the others are looking ! .....
Well, someone--

--has to win - and here he comes - - literally rolling home !

The youngsters think it great fun ! .... They're already training for the nineteen-forty-two "Barrel Derby".
