

GLORIOUS "OLD BAGS" - Five Colours of the Dorsetshire Regiment deposited for evermore in Sherborne Abbey.

Picture.:- In this Abbey at Sherborne hangs one of-- --the finest collections of Regimental Colours possessed by any Church in the Kingdom. To-day five colours of the Dorsetshire--

--Regiment are added to the list.

Brigadier-General Radcliffe representing the Colonel of the Dorsets is present--

--to hand them into the care of the Vicar of the Abbey. The Dorset Regiment was the first King's Regiment to fight in India. Hence their motto "Primus in-- --Indis". These standards have fluttered in the breeze of many countries in the world, and in early days many battles were fought under their shadow. Their purpose has been served, and they are now retiring to a well--

--earned rest in the old Abbey.
