ROYAL AIR FORCE DISPLAY AT HENDON -

All roads lead to-----

-----Hendon and the R.A.F. pageant -- and -----

-----a royal car brings the Duke of York. -----

-----An amazed crowd watches scenes unparalleled in the history of military aviation. Hundreds of machines -----

----- massed together for this famous event. The show starts. Squadrons begin taking----- -----the air until the sky is alive with them.-----

-----the dull, sky makes watching less trying to the eyes-----

EFFECTS

Effects

-----twists the neck a bit to follow the planes-----

-----there's the new auto-gyro flapping its odd looking wings----- and here's the mystery plane, the new night bomber, a fearsome beast with a snout like a whale-----

-----two hundred machines are taking part here to-day.

----- day-bombers throw out a smoke trail while looping-----

----- a flight of machines all on the square-----

-----a kite balloon observer escapes destruction by parachute-----

-----when buildings and military stores are attacked by enemy air squadrons. The blimp is destroyed and falls in flames while-shell shells from aircraft batteries burst round the attacking planes. The hostile bombers -----

-----evade the battery fire. The range is too short. -----

-----and their bombs are dropped with dire effect on the-buildings
-----underneath. The range found, they are----- -----driven off, but the flaming-----
-----pile of wreckage and chaos is left on the ground-----
-----below testifies to their appalling destructiveness. A great show.
