

C-218851

"EAST MEETS WEST" - Pearly kings and queens meet, and mingle with Society folk at Mrs. Woolley Hart's costermongers' ball. -London-

Picture:- "'Appy 'Ampstead" has moved its quarters to the West End for one night only ! Genuine Pearly Kings and Queens of Aldgate, Whitechapel and Hoxton mingle freely with base imitations of themselves by people of high society. Some of the guests arrive in donkey carts.
A curious conveyance to draw up outside a mansion in Princes Gate, London, W.

Lady Oxford, with her son Anthony Asquith, is among the guests invited to be--

--amused by this brilliantly conceived idea. Quadrilles or lancers, or whatever the dance is, are carried out-- --in the proper spirit of the Mile End Road. Fortune telling from tea cups by--

--pretty dark eyed coster girls is a feature of the entertainment.

East promenades arm in arm with the West. It must be rather a curious experience from both--

--points of the compass. It's strange what clothes will do, isn't it ? Is--

--this Miss Vere de Vere,--

--or Lizzie 'Iggins of 'Ighgate ?