lays foundation stone of new hospital at Tunbridge Wells,--Kent-

Picture.:- There surely cannot be a busier person than Her Royal Highness--

--the Duchess of York. To-day she visits Tunbridge Wells to lay the-- --foundation stone of the Kent--

--and Sussex new Hospital. Mr. Robert Burslem hands the Duchess a casket containing newspapers giving--

--reports of this ceremony and hospital--

--records. These data are placed in a hollow of the foundation--

--stone and will thus--

--be built into the hospital walls, to be re-discovered - when - and by whom I wonder !

After accepting purses of money for the Hospital,--

--and its merciful work Her Royal-- --Highness departs having performed yet another gracious act as a royal duty to the people.
