THE ASSAYE COLOUR - The famous 129-year-old flag of the Highland Light Infantry, placed with solemn ceremony, within the Scottish Shrine. -Edinburgh-

Picture.:- The Assaye Colour of the Second Battalion Light Infantry goes to the Scottish National War Memorial Shrine. This Colour was the work of Lady Balfour, and recalls the victory of the renowned Duke--

--of Wellington during the Indian Campaign of 1803. The Highlanders fought in the Battle of Assaye against terrible odds. Every officer was either killed, or wounded. Only the Quarter Master remained. Seeing so many of his fellow Scots slaughtered, he entered--

--the fighting line and fought with the rank and file, until the action ended. The Duke of Wellington was in command, and a decisive victory over the-- --rebellious Mahrattas was the result. The placing of the Colour in Scotland's War Shrine will perpetuate the memory of those who fell in the Battle. It will stand by the Highland Light Infantry Memorial in-- --the Hall of Honour.

BAND UP UNTIL JUST BEFORE END OF LAST SHOT.

Honour to those who gave their lives in the cause of peace !
