"LEST WE FORGET" - - Old and new members of "The Buffs" witness laying-up of old Colours of the 1st Battalion at Canterbury Cathedral.-Kent-

---

Picture:- "The Buffs" lost over six-thousand men in the War, and to-day is--

--the occasion of the annual service of remembrance in-- --Canterbury Cathedral. .... A thousand old comrades--
--join in the tribute to those who fell

To-day has a special significance; for the old Colours of the First Battalion are to be "laid up" with other flags--

--of the Regiment. .... The Second Battalion, the Territorials, Cadets, and-- --others are here as escort, for the First Battalion is away on duty, near Rangoon, Burma. .... The Colours are those which were carried by the East Kents across the Rhine to Cologne, and later were with the Buffs in Turkey. .... The congregation--

--numbered over three thousand. .... After an impressive service within the Cathedral, the Buffs--

--march past the Colonel-of-the Regiment, Major-General Sir Arthur Lynden Bell, who must-- --surely be proud of his command. .... A splendid regiment with-- --one of the finest records in the British army. .... All honour to them!
