

C-421951

PRINCE GEORGE IN CARDIFF - - His Royal Highness receives hearty welcome when he visits the city to open National Museum extension.

-S.Wales-

TRAIN EFFECT.

Picture.:- On his arrival at Cardiff Prince George is-- --welcomed by Lord Plymouth, and the Mayor of the City.

The Prince first visits the City Hall and becomes--
--A City Freeman. His primary object in visiting Cardiff--
--is to open the new extension of the National-- --Museum of Wales. A huge crowd--
--cheers him outside the new building--
--as he arrives for the ceremony. A popular touch is--- --his inspection of the local British Legion members. Among-- --these are three V.C.'s, of whom Cardiff is rightly--
--proud. The crowds are very dense as Prince-- --George mounts the steps of the new extension. The older institution,--
--of which this is a part, was opened by the late--
--King Edward in 1912. Its-- --object is to preserve the rich store of national relics which--
--Keep green the history of Wales and its sturdy people.