ACROSS THE CANAL - - Glasgow's Lord Provost opens new Bridge as part of great highway to the North.

-Scotland-

Picture.:- As the old order changeth, new necessities arise ! This old Glasgow--

--Bridge has up till now provided a traffic route to the North--

--of Scotland. Increasing road vehicles have made this new Bridge a vital need. To-day Glasgow's-- --Lord Provost, City Councillors and guests come to declare the thoroughfare--

--open for public. ^{Use} Lord Provost Sir Thomas Kelly cuts the ribbon--

--and the right of way is made free, for the first time officially. By the touch of a button, the bridge is lowered--

--over the canal, and the gates are swung back.
The traffic control arrangements are-- --claimed to be fool-proof. The gates can be opened or closed in twenty seconds and additional warnings to traffic are given by electrical gongs and stop signs. The bridge is-- --part of an ambitious scheme to provide --

--a great new highway to Northern Britain.
