Picture.:- With a cine camera, we cannot photograph rumours, romantic, or otherwise. We have therefore contented ourselves--

--with a few shots of the Princess Ingrid of Sweden on her departure for home--

--after a short visit to her grand-father The Duke of Connaught. The Princess enters the air liner which is to take her to Brussels,-

--while the Earl of Athlone, brother of the-- --Queen who escorted her to the plane--

--watches it move off. The Princess is travelling alone--

--except for a lady-in-waiting. As the plane rises,--

--she gives a final wave of the hand,--

--and is gone. Everyone is looking forward with interest to her next visit.
