REMEMBRANCE DAY 1914 - 1918 - Dedicated to 'The Glorious Dead'.

His Majesty the King leads the nation in impressive tribute to those who gave their all.

Picture.:- Fourteen years since the men and women of the British Empire sank in-- --spirit reverently to their knees to thank God for the end of fifteen hundred dreadful days of war. From--

--the outposts of Empire; from the cities and plains--

--of India and Egypt; from the vast colonies of-- --Canada and Australia, all eyes and hearts turn to the mother country on this day and at this hour.

His Majesty the King leads the nation in this tribute of--

--the living to those invisible hosts of heroic dead, who can never die. As he stands before the stone symbol of a nation's tears, his subjects, in their hundreds of thousands, stand with him,--

--sharing the same respectful hush in their hearts.
Like wind--

--over eorn, a whispered rustle runs over the crowd as the King advances to place his wreath at the foot of the Cenotaph. There is a swaying forward of heads to glimpse the Royal movement. The Duke of York follows his father's lead,--

--watched by the Queen, the Princess Royal and the Duchess of York.

Then the inspired moments !

'BIG BEN' effect over series of dissolves.

'BIG BEN', with under-current of crowd noises. (The strike finished before this shot.

'CAPS OFF' shot, continue under-current of crowd.
