IN THE NICK OF TIME - - Vast flock of sheep driven from mountain pastures to escape threatening snowstorm.

U.S.A.-

---

Picture:- More woolies than you have ever seen before in one look ! Sixty--

--thousand suppliers of a nation's mutton--
--broth are rushed down from the Rattlesnake Hills--
--to escape the season's first snow-storm.

The freezing reception up there is not worse than the warm--

--one they will get below if they did but know it.
The younger ones,--

--roast lamb - - the older ones - - stewed mutton.
Their fat melted down for tallow,--

--their hides tanned for leather, hoofs boiled for glue,--

--and their wool for - - or <sup>WARM</sup> -/- woolies. If they knew--

--half of that they might chance any decent sized snowstorm.
