FOGGING THE ENEMY - - French authorities experiment with artificial fog clouds as protection against attack from the air.

-Esquerdes-

Picture.:- An invention in France to lessen the chances of successful enemy attack. This smoke column--

--is rising from a special preparation which actually creates--

--a thick fog over any given area. Although very dense, it-- --is lighter than air, and floats above the land in a stifling opaque cloud.

A few minutes after a warning of approaching aircraft has been received, a large--

--area can be hidden beneath this artificial fog, and hardly inconvenience the people working below--

--it. At the same time, the dug-out is not a bad place during a raid !
