PRIZE DAY - - Boys of the training ship "Mercury" inspected by Vice-Admiral Sir Herbert Meade-Fetherstonhaugh at Hamble.

-Southampton-

Picture:- The boys of the TrainingShip Mercury have a life of continuous variety. To-- --get a wide view of things in general they climb this rigging, crack a few gags, and come down--

--again to their Stage Manager Mrs. Fry, and Vice-Admiral Sir--

--Herbert Meade-Fetherstonhaugh, before whom they show their famous march-past act. This is very successful,-- --and the Admiral inspects the entire ensemble prior to presenting the prizes for-- --excellence in all sorts of things, including, dancing, singing, and acting. At this audition before the gallant naval impresario, the versatile troop dance a highland fling, warble grand opera, recite poems, and all excellently, mind You !

The boy in the centre G.Pitt has won thirteen prizes,--

--and along with all the other prize winners, and future admirals, is now going to collect them. Good luck, good lads !
