

SAWDUST AND SPANGLES - First performance of famous Olympia Circus delights and thrills audience of 6,000 children.
- London -

Picture:- Effects and Band first shot.

Nothing takes the place of the circus, if you don't believe it, ask your small --

-- sons and daughters. Dazzling lights, magnificent horses, groomed to glisten like satin, ridden by wonderful beings --

-- resplendent in silk fleshings and glittering spangles.
Quaint little Japs of almost magical dexterity and --

-- this year Father Christmas in a golden snow-decked chariot.
Nothing can equal these breath-taking things. Ask the kiddies!

Applause over two shots.

The days of circuses under tents have nearly passed but so long as kiddies are kiddies, circuses must remain.

Applause.

Be careful Mothers and big sisters, the babies will steal your best ribbons to try this trick, --

-- and the equestrian acts. What a thrill for the young and --

-- for some of the old too. Sleek animals, superb men and the lovely ladies !

Hold it ! Jones minor, age seven, thought she would fall.
Jones major, as old as thirteen, knew she wouldn't !

Still its a thrill. We older folk know that the ecstasy of these moments once --

-- enjoyed, can never be recaptured. The children are lucky they don't know. No wonder --

-- we sigh for lost youth ! (Effects to end of shot.)

CROWD

CROWD AND BAND

The Circus ! Wonderful circuses must never die !