WELL BALANCED - - Advanced pupils of the Army School at Aldershot delight big audience with perfect display on the parallel bars.

Picture. :- All the best gymnasts are not in the circuses. A lot of very good ones are here in the Army School, Aldershot. What they don't know about bars, parallel, or horizontal,--

--is hardly worth finding out. The show isn't--

--as spectacular as it is precise. Things in the Army have to be just so. Notice how exact every movement is and how perfectly timed. Most of these fellows can stand on their hands as easily as they can on their feet.

Friends of the men take advantage--

--of the invitation given by the School Commandant for them to see these--

--displays. The performers are all--

--young men who have chosen the Army for a career. Like many others paths of achievement, there is much hard work to be done, and this display shows a very small part of it.
