SAD HOMECONING - - All that remains of the one-time magnificent luxury ship l'Atlantique arrives at Cherbourg.

Picture .: - After hours of exciting and tragic moments, the cripped l'Atlantique, --

--with all her luxury fittings burnt out limps sadly into Cherbourg Harbour under-- --cover of night. Although the hour is late, immense but silent crowds line--

-- the shore. It is like being present--

-at a funeral. A roll of muffled drums would surprise-

--no one. The ravages of the fire have left a sad picture--

. -- of destruction. Twenty-five minutes to seven ! Half-- --an hour after the--

--erew had been ordered to leave--

-- the doomed vessel. The saloom - - a palace of glories destroyed. A--

-sea monarch laid low-

-by a lighted eigerette end. A petty enemy to
