

FORTUNE FROM FLOORING! - - High value of gold inspires opportunist to make money out of dust - - gathered from floorboards of jewellery factories !
-Boston.U.S.A.-

Picture.:- You've read about the Scotsman, who every day for two-- --years brushed gold-dust out of his sweetheart's clothes when she returned from her work at a--

--Jewellery factory. This man here made a fortune by--

--buying old floors from Jewellery makers, burning the-- --wood, rescuing the metallic dust from the-- --ashes and turning it back-- --to solid gold by melting it-- --down in crucibles. This seems a better game than the Russian scientist played at, saying he could-- --make gold, and getting rewarded with two years behind-- --bars because he couldn't. Watch this ! A river of gold taken from the dust which people have shaken off their feet. A gill of liquid money !,--

--and nearly all profit. Not so dusty, is it ?
