

ROCK BLASTING - - Big explosion tears 400 tons from wall of rock at Inverkeithing.

-Scotland-

---

Picture:- Only a little town, but a big noise will visit Inverkeithing in --

--a few minutes. The face of the quarry rock--

--is being prepared to receive the visitor, which in fact --

--is 40 packets of gelignite. One shout from--

--them and things happen. Everybody clear ?

Then let her go !

(EXPLOSION).

A pretty big result from such a short speech.

400 tons of whinstone shifted from the place--

--it has occupied for the last fifty thousand years.
Some large rocks are broken up with a series of small--

--charges. Others are carefully split by hand for kerb stones,--

--and the like. Some are cut up for road sets. Blasted, blown up--

--and then trodden underfoot. What a life !
