noble cause of charity.

(BAND OVER FIRST SHOT)

In the cause of charity, comedians meet boxers at Manchester. A--

--football match is billed, but at these affairs one never knows.

George Formby and Kid Furness toss up for ends.
Formby cracks a joke that the boxer doesn't think is funny. The toss-up becomes a personal matter, and the comedian sees things from a different view-point. After agreement, the ends are reversed.

The crowd rather enjoys the interlude. A stage favourite,--

--Miss Marie Burke, kicks off,--

--and the game is on ! Jaw crackers against gag crackers, well, they're all--

--'crackers', anyway ! You can recognise the comedians by the-- --white pants of a blameless life. Just for a joke, the comics attack--

--the bruisers' goal. The joke ends against--

--the Boxers, but it's the charity which really scores.
