GRAND BONSPIEL - - Over 800 curlers take part in the season's biggest match, on the ice of picturesque Loch Leven. -Scotland-

Picture.:- A' the airts of Fife, Kinross and Perth contribute to these eight-hundred curlers taking part in the Bonspiel at Loch Leven. Curling stanes flash--
--over the ice, as they leave hands skilled for generations in throwing them, while --
--the waggle of the kilt shows the player's--
--excitement. Lairds and their leddies pit their--
--stances against their Scottish tennantry. Lord--
--Scone, skipper of the Scone and Perth team is among-- --the notable players at this picturesque--
--gathering held amid typical Scottish surroundings. Among the onlookers a little betting is very cautiously--
--indulged in. But very cautiously, believe me! The gathering is very old,--
--and although there are not many opportunities to play it,--
--the Scottish curlers never seem to lose their accuracy. The raising--
--of brushes indicates that the throw is approved. The day's play concludes--
--with a demonstration of Scottish enthusiasm for the ancient sport of the Highlands. A chorus of hearty cheers and a loud noise of popping corks.
