

THE NEW UNIFORM - - The General Officer
C.-in-C., Northern Command, witnesses 'field tests' by troops in the new Army uniform, at Catterick.

-Yorkshire-

Picture. :- The much discussed, cussed, and criticised new Army uniform is given its first full field tests.
Lieutenant--

--General Sir Francis Catherne-Hardy, G.O.C. watches--

--the machine gun concentration by men in the-- --new rig. Railway protection doesn't seem to be adversely effected--

--by the different cut of the plus fours, and a--

--comparative speed test of dismantling machine guns scores in favour of the latest fashion. The uniform and equipment are lighter--

--than the old pattern, and permit freer movement.
During strenuous exercises it is particularly noted that the men wearing the new kit carry out--

--the evolutions with less distress than those wearing the old type. Whatever this-- --man thinks, he's taking it lying down. These designs--

--are not actually final, but in general opinion are favourable,--

--barring the lid. Tommy is doubtful if it--

--matches his style of beauty. There's the dismissal!
So that's so-and-so that!
