

c-212PS1

ARMY'S DUMMY HORSES - - Army Equitation School at Weedon installs docile mounts for men under riding instruction.

-North Hants-

Picture.:-

Introducing "Wall Eyed Wattie", the nag with the naughty eye. He's so wooden that he will stand for anything, and so dumb he can't say 'neigh', nohow!
He and--

--his brothers are noted for their tender treatment of young rookies.

Whoa hoss ! You would think they had just seen the good looking filly in the next field. But they're too dumb to throw a recruit,--

--let alone a kiss. A quick method of dismounting.
A new kind of shake down ! He's exceeded--

--his duty. Laugh crowd laugh ! But your turn will come:

These "Wall Eyed Watties" give excellent opportunities for--

--elementary drill instruction, and they're much too good mannered to show contempt for inexperience.
The result of the training is this!

Having got used to the mechanics of riding,--

--the men take to the real thing as to the manner born. Dull routine gives way to the joy of managing a real flesh and blood animal and training it to respond to the quietest word or the lightest touch.
It's a case of the end justifying the means.