SUPERSTITION DEFIED - - Miss Pamela Balfour
chooses a Friday for her wedding to Mr.H.Scott-Plummer at St.Giles's Cathedral.
-Edinburgh-

Picture.:-

One of Robert's prettiest hold-ups !(PAUSE AND CHATTER). A quartette of bridesmaids arrive at St. Giles's Cathedral, Edinburgh, for the wedding of the Honourable Pamela Balfour,--

--(this is Robert's lucky day). Miss Balfour is the eldest daughter of Lord and Lady Kinross. She is to marry Mr.Humphrey Scott-Plummer, and she--

--defies superstition by doing it on Friday. Hey Presto !

And the wedding ceremony is over. The screen's a wonderful time saving device. The sunshine is wonderful. If there's any truth in the old saw"happy is the bride that the--- --sun shines on, Mrs Scott-Plummer's life is going to be--

--a pathway of roses. (PAUSE AND CHATTER).

(CAR AND CHATTER).

Having persuaded the ten bridesmaids in shimmering white satin and gold lace to pose for you--

--there's little else to do, but wish the happy girl and lucky man--

--all the good things they wish themselves.
