A NAVAL OCCASION - - Picturesque scenes at wedding of Miss Jean Dundas to Lieut-Commander Peter Reid of H.M.S. Hood at Edinburgh.

-Scotland-

Picture.:-

When H.M.S. "Hood's" liberty boat landed Lieutenant-Commander Peter Reid recently, it was--

--for no ordinary leave. He left at '6 bells' and arrived at 'wedding bells',--

--to sign on for the longest cruise of his notable career. Miss Jean Dundas, now Mrs Peter Reid, is the only daughter of the late Sir Henry Dundas and--

--Lady Beatrix Dundas, well-known--

--figures of Scottish society. The bridegroom is-- --the son of the eminent physician, Sir Thomas Reid.

An attractive feature of the wedding--

--is a group of small boys in Yeoman of Signals uniform.

Not forgetting, of course, nine golden bridesmaids who beautifully maintain-- --the gold standard. Thousands of people gather to wish the happy couple 'good luck', thus proving the popularity of this naval occasion.
