The new peacefully disposed ferry-boat "ROYAL DAFFODIL", commemorates the day when she took part in the Zeebrugge raid.

Merseyside survivors of the raid take part in the service.

Many memorial wreaths are placed on the ship's tablet.

A survivor lays one to the memory of his fallen comrades--

--who died in the hour of victory on the 23rd April, 1918. The Royal Daffodil and Royal Iris are shortly to retire, but--

---on the Merseyside, their names will always be remembered.
