LABOUR DAY IN LONDON - - A great multitude takes part in Labour's annual rally - - probably the biggest demonstration of its kind ever held in this country.

-Hyde Park-

Whatever one's political views, it must be admitted that Labour's May--

--Day demonstration in Hyde Park was a pattern for the capitals of the world.

Processions from all parts of the city steadily wound their way towards the famous open-air debating ground of all parties.(PAUSE).

Districts were easily identifiable by their branch banners.(Pause).

The good-humour of these teeming, streaming thousands was more like that of a Cup Final crowd.

By the time, the various detachments reached the Park, there were some one-hundred-thousand labour supporters all--

--bunched in one place. Even with this vast crowd, the Police had little to do but look on.

Mr.Lansbury's appearance was the signal for noisy enthusiasm, while--

--the runners up in popularity were Mr.Herbert Morrison and--

--Mr.George Hicks.(EFFECTS)

Altogether a very successful demonstration.
