THEIR NEW HOME - - Boys of the Royal Hospital School, Greenwich, celebrate arrival at their new quarters at Holbrook.

-Suffolk-

Picture.

It's their first parade on the new ground. Late of the Royal--

--Hospital School, Greenwich, now of Holbrook,--

--the boys have quickly settled down in their new quarters. To-day they celebrate the naval occasion by a full-dress march past their Superintendent--

--Captain Bruce-Gardyne, R.N.D.S.O.

The boys are delighted with-- --the new School, which gives them more healthy air and freedom than--

--they were able to get at Greenwich.

Manning the mast, which is erected in the-- grounds for training purposes. From the old ship--

--"Fame" at Greenwich, the figure head is being brought--

--here and fitted to the rifle range. It's an angelic figure which--

--just matches the boys' behaviour. Sometimes !
