MARKSMEN'S MECCA - - Company Sergeant-Major Ellis of Small Arms School Corps wins the King's Medal.

Picture.:-

A great event this ! All the big 'shots' are here. Sharp shooters by the thousand ! three thousand to be nearly correct. This is a competition for the King's Medal open to all serving members of His Majesty's Forces.

The rapid firing finds some--

--bulls, and then forward to the next firing position.

The targets again get an eyeful.

The competitors advance to their next and last firing position. Apparently one has to be a good runner,--

--as well as a good shot for this game.

The last points are scored and--

--the men go back to discover the winner.

(EFFECTS).

Sergeant-Major Ellis of the Small Arms School Corps wins, with a score of 173 points and becomes King's Medallist.
