

JIM COMES HOME - - Mr. James Mellison arrives at Plymouth to plan further long distance flight for " Amy and Jim".

-Devon-

---

Picture:- In a few moments, the Majestic's passengers will be ashore.

(EFFECT).

The tender is alongside, now, and there's quite a--
--crush watching operations. Like me, they are--

--waiting for Jim Mellison, and there he is on the tender's gangway. The crowds, who have been waiting in the pouring rain, are about wet through,--

--but happy to help in Jim's welcome.

Despite his trying experiences, Mellison looks pretty fit, and the stubborn set--

--of his shoulders seems to utter a challenge. He is determined to--

--pursue his original idea of winning the long-distance record.

Meanwhile Amy takes a busman's holiday. Her friend Amelia Earhart--

--gives a novel air party--

--in a large transport plane. Amy is the--

--guest of honour. Just passing the wonderful New York State Building.

To Jim's wife, the plane--

--seems over-populated. She's used to only--

--herself, or just one other for air--

--company. She's after that record, too. Well, good luck !